

Mircea Cantor
The Landscape is Changing

Mircea Cantor was born in Romania but lives now in France. He is famous for hitchhiking his way out of Eastern Europe as a teenager and making work in turn about travel as a complex range of experiences that enabled a range of interventions and experiences. This often results in work that encourages cultural misunderstandings. He also co-founded the art journal Version which is a mixed bag of approaches highlighting the work of young artists. In his video the street demonstrators are caught up with themselves rather than acting as a homogeneous group. They carry signs that have mirrored surfaces, reflecting, distorting and transforming the reality of the situation around them. The individuals struggle for expression in the same way that many contemporary artists do (especially in a large group show like this one).